Peter Ralph's collection

Took the opportunity to snap my nicest handling models. Skybolts top the list by far, followed by (surprise) the Rare Bear. All the others are easy enough to fly but do have a few of their own little quirks.

Note there are no multi rotors

Regards, Peter Ralph

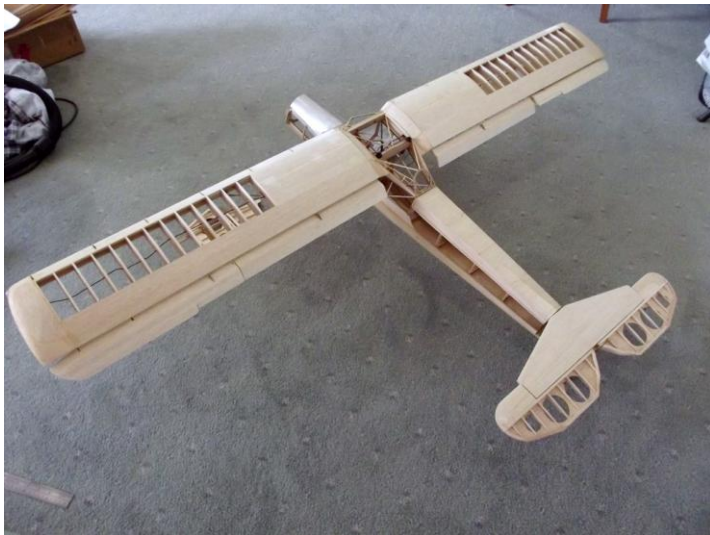

The Strip

Should we tell him it will not fly.

Garry's progress with his Storch

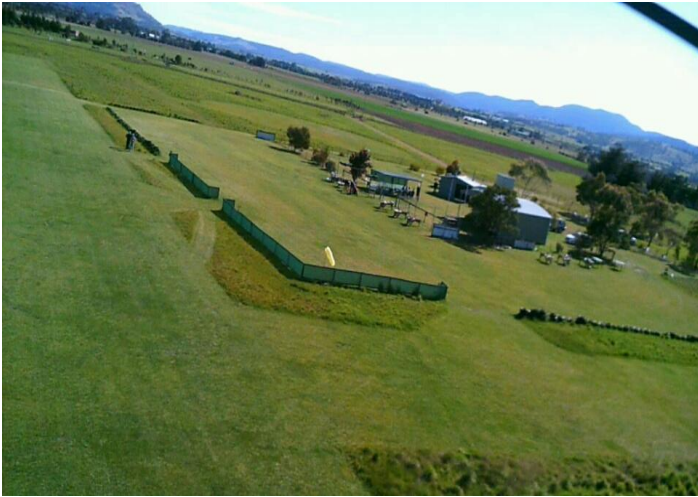

Hi , these are the latest pics of the Storch , almost ready to cover , just have to put fairings on the undercarriage and struts .

See if anyone can guess where the nav. light lenses came from . They are from the bottom of a Bickfords juice bottle .

Regards Gary

A comment on the working bee from Keith Drew

I found it rewarding as I met a few new people and working together is a great social occasion, it was certainly not hard work for me and several others raking, but the shovelers no doubt worked up a sweat.
